outside of the building and I thought about some fellows attacking Herzog a few days before. There was also a gang of reporters around—always looking for the piece for the papers from me.

Q—What did Austrian say to you?

A—He told me he had the goods on all the boys and I said I would come clean. I wanted to get a lawyer and Austrian said he could do me more good than a lawyer. He told me to tell what I knew and I could leave town.

Q—Didn't Replogle tell you anything you said to the jury could be used against you?

A—No, I don't remember.

Q—Were you still drunk from the night before?

A—Maybe I was half drunk. Joe then reiterated in his boyish fashion that he had been promised freedom but probably had been called back to testify against gamblers.

Joe, always giving the comedy relief to the trial, stated he was "up" the night after the grand jury experiences.

"I signed some papers," said Joe. "I didn't know what it was. I was so excited I would have signed my death warrant."

"Shoelless Joe," once the hero of the kids around the White Sox park, was questioned by Attorney Short at the state's office last fall.

"Austrian asked me if I knew I would be indicted," said Joe. "I told him I didn't know about it. Austrian then asked if I had a lawyer. I told him I did not."

"Austrian then shouted 'You better get one—you need lawyer damn bad.'"

"I then was taken over where the grand jury was in session.

"On the way over with Replogle, he told me Cicotte was a free man. I was told that the gamblers and not the ball players were the ones the law wanted."

"They told me to tell my story and I would be free. They said I could go anywhere I wanted to afterwards—the South Sea Islands if I wanted to."

Q—What happened then?

A—I left the court in the company of two bailiffs. I took them out and got them drunk that night. I thought I was free.

WILLIAMS TELLS HIS PART IN DEAL

Claude Williams, former White Sox pitcher, followed Jackson on the stand, and said that Judge McDonald had not promised him anything, but that Austrian promised him immunity if he could confess, and Replogle had agreed to stand by anything Austrian said.

Asked by the state if he had not "come running to Judge McDonald for an immunity bath," and if Judge McDonald had not told him "You will get no immunity here," Williams replied, "Nothing like that happened."

Police Capture Bandit Youths After Battle

Five Confess Jewelry Store Robberies in S. F., Officers Say.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 25.—Five youthful bandits are in the city jail following a series of revolver duels and a chase with the police yesterday. They are: James Wallace, 17 years old, 14 Wright street; Fred Ganzhorn, 18, 1652 San Bruno avenue; Frank Terru, 20, 945 Olney avenue; William Selhorn, 19, 30 Park street, and Sidney Clark, 19, 124 Holiday avenue.

Captured with a sunnysack in their possession containing $1500 worth of jewelry, the youths confessed, according to the police, to the burglary last Sunday of the jewelry store of William Haslinger, 3255 Mission street, in which $2000 worth of rings and watches were stolen. Considerable more loot was found by the police in the headquarters of the youths on Army street. The boys said they had sold the rest of the loot.

The capture of the bandits was effected by Detectives John Palmer, James Gregson, Fred Bohr, Richard Tatham. They observed a large car at Army street and Potrero avenue, which was met by one of the boys lugging the sack of jewelry. Drawing their revolvers, the police officers approached the car, which started up suddenly. The car stopped as suddenly as it had started and the bandits began to fire on the officers. A chase ensued, which resulted in the capture of two of the lads, who revealed the names of the others, who were later taken into custody.

N. Y. Steamer Sinks With Entire Cargo

LONDON, July 25.—The American steamship Parthian caught fire and sank off the north African coast, said a news agency dispatch from Oran, Algeria, today. All on board were saved. The cargo of silk and cotton was lost. The Parthian, 2000 tons, hailed from New York.

The Parthian was a freighter of 1400 tons, belonging to the Merchants' and Miners' Transportation Company. She was last reported at Alexandria, built in 1897 and registered from Baltimore.

mobile driven by Robert Searle, 620 Birch avenue, that city. Searle's wife and child were in the automobile with him at the time of the accident and at his death his death Adams was accompanied by a friend, P. McGrath, 27 Sharon street, San Francisco. The driver of the death car was arrested and taken to the police station, where he was charged with manslaughter.

Mrs. Young and Rachael Young met their death yesterday when their automobile was demolished by train No. 5 of the Santa Fe railroad, as they were crossing at Moron, near Fresno. John Young was driving the automobile. He was thrown clear of the wreck, but Mrs. Young and Rachael were crushed beneath the machine. The others of the party were taken to a hospital in Fresno in a critical condition.

Miss Willy is today suffering from serious injuries sustained Saturday night when a motorcycle upon which she was riding with C. M. Bartholomew of 1212 Haskell street, Berkeley, collided with another motorcycle and went into a ditch at the corner of Prince and Ward streets, Berkeley. She sustained a concussion of the brain and a severe cut over the left eye. The other machine was driven by Frederick Da Murt, age 18 years, of 1819 Woolsey street. The others were not injured.

TRUCK PLUNGES DOWN BROADWAY TERRACE

Max Nicholson was injured with several others last night when a truck, driven by Cal Heister, carrying eighteen passengers, plunged down the Broadway Terrace hill. The party was on a picnic to Glenwood park, according to a report made to the police, and were returning, when J. A. Mullen, 3260 Adelphi street, owner of the truck, who had been driving, turned the wheel over to Heister. Driving down Broadway Terrace hill, Heister lost control of the machine, which plunged wildly down the steep grade until it swerved and struck the curb. A police ambulance from the Northern station removed the injured to the Receiving and Fabiola hospitals.

Mrs. Bathman and her six-week-old baby were probably fatally hurt in an accident near Pittsburg when their car turned over, pinning the mother and her child beneath. They are not expected to live. Bathman was out on skidding on the wet pavement at Tenth avenue and Fulton street, San Francisco, knocked down an iron light pole, broke off a wooden post at the base and brought down trolley wires, and was wrecked against a house, injuring Healey and two others. According to Healey, he lost control of the car on the wet pavement when it began to skid.

Paris and Nostril were hurt when the jitney in which they were riding collided with an automobile driven by William Bigelow, 644 Leavenworth street, Hyde street, and Golden Gate avenue, San Francisco. They were taken to the Central Emergency hospital.

MURDEROUS AND AUTO COLLISION

Orlando Montinho, 497 Joaquin avenue, San Leandro, suffered a compound fracture of the right leg last night when a motorcycle on which he was riding collided with an automobile driven by Aleck Pellizarietti, 2193 East Fourteenth street, at the corner of Washington avenue and Williams street, San Leandro. Montinho was thrown from the motorcycle and the auto considerably damaged. Montinho was taken to the county infirmary.

Miss Hopkins was injured and the 2-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Croll had a narrow escape from death when the two were on the paved highway in a three-cornered automobile accident near Milpitas yesterday afternoon. Ten other occupants of the three cars which came together in the crash narrowly escaped injury and all three machines were badly damaged. J. Welkert of 544 Thirtieth street, Oakland, driving south toward this city, according to the report made to Sheriff George Lyle by county traffic officers, made a sudden stop with the intention of turning to the left, failing to give any signal. As a result, Croll, driving directly behind Welkert's car, was forced to swing suddenly to the left in order to avoid a crash. In so doing he crashed into the side of the Welkert machine, while at the same instant the third machine, driven by F. W. Faught of 603 West Accacia street, Stockton, who was driving directly in back of Croll, in a similar effort to avoid striking the car ahead of him, swung to the left and crashed into the side of Croll's car, which was smashed between the two other machines. As a result of the impact of the three cars the 2-year-old Croll child, sitting in its mother's lap, was hurled through the air, falling on its face on the highway. When picked up, however, the babe had little more than a few scratches on its face. Miss Hopkins, a guest of the Crolls, sustained cuts and bruises about the face when thrown against the side of the automobile. BIRTH SUSTAINS BROKEN NOSE

C. W. Bereth, stopping at the Imperial hotel, this city, sustained a broken nose when his automobile crashed into another machine and he was thrown against the windshield.

Mr. and Mrs. L. T. Diebels and their six children, all of Cupertino, and C. A. Becker of San Francisco were treated at the O'Connor sanatorium, San Jose, last night, as the result of minor injuries sustained when they crashed into an automobile driven by a second party whose name was not learned here. The accident occurred near Niles. According to witnesses, the accident took place when the second machine "cut in" in front of Diebels' car, the result being that both machines were badly demolished. Diebels' car was overturned and all of the occupants, including Becker, a guest were thrown out. Not one escaped without sustaining abrasions and lacerations of a minor nature. The children ranged in age from 3 to 15 years. All were able to return to their home after having been treated at O'Connor's.

Governor Small Wins Contest to Resist Arrest

Sheriff Declares He Will Not Resort To Force To Serve Warrant.

BY UNITED PRESS

LEASTON, WIS., July 25.—Governor Len Small today apparently had won his fight to force postponement of his arrest and trial on charges of juggling $10,000,000 in state money, until after his term of office expires.

Sheriff Henry Mester of Sangamon county, on whose shoulders will fall the duty of serving the warrants, said the United States he would not use force in efforts to arrest the indicted governor.

Mester's statement brought relief to the state capital, where pictures of armed clashes between state militia, called to protect the governor, and sheriff's deputies, vividly drawn in reports and rumors, has kept the populace on edge.

SHERIFF DECLARES HE WILL NOT USE FORCE

The sheriff told the United Press he would make an honest effort to serve warrants, if so instructed by the court.

"I may cause the governor some worry," the sheriff said, "I will try to use diplomacy and tact, but I will not use force."

As it will be necessary for force to be used to bring that last holdout, as long as he continues his present attitude, it was apparent the situation would rest at that rather indefinite state until the governor has completely broken his word, or is willing to submit to arrest.

Even if the sheriff or his deputies should reach the governor personally and read the warrant to him, the executive probably would ignore it and not go to court unless he was forcibly taken. This, the sheriff stated, he would not do.

Sheriff Mester, a huge man, who could probably pick the governor up with one hand and carry him into court, if he wished, said he was sure there would be no trouble.

Judge E. S. Smith is expected to hand down his decision tomorrow holding Small subject to arrest, and order the sheriff to take him into custody. The sheriff will probably notify the governor of his arrest and warrant for his arrest, and there the matter will drop, if the governor doesn't change his mind and decide to stand trial.

GOVERNOR'S MANSION CLOSELY GUARDED

In the meantime Governor Small was taking no chances. Burtles watched the executive's mansion until it swerved and struck the curb wherever he went. The governor's advisors were prepared for a coup.

Reports were current that a battalion of state troops under Colonel F. L. Leonard would be ordered to Springfield to protect the governor today. If this is done, it is expected to be a demonstration to show the length to which Small and his friends are willing to go to prevent arrest.

"It makes no difference what happens to Len Small, but the governor of the state cannot yield to political or money interests," the executive said.

"I took my oath of office and there is no power that can restrain me from fulfilling it."

The governor cannot abide by his oath of office and surrender the sovereignty of the executive power with which he has been entrusted."

Japanese Block Road; Autoists Forbidden Use

Chains, Guards Keep Traffic Off San Pedro, Redondo Short Cut.

LOS ANGELES, July 25.—(United Press.)—Japanese farmers are blocking the Clifton-Whitepoint road with chains and have employed Mexican guards to keep them off, according to reports to the automobile club of Southern California today by numerous motorists who were forbidden to use the road yesterday.

The road is a much traveled short cut between San Pedro and Redondo. It is said to have been used for fifty years which, under the law, would make it public property auto club officials said.

The Japanese explanation for the seizure is that pleasure traffic interfered with truck transportation of their farm products.

The automobile club of Southern California will push an immediate investigation, according to Field Secretary Carl E. McStay.

Fighting between Japanese and whites said to run high in the Clifton-Whitepoint district. Trouble over possible forcible attempts to open the road is feared.

BRITAIN INSISTS ON LONDON MEET ON DISARMAMENT

Japan Receives U. S. Note in Reply To Query On Scope Of Conference.

By NEWTON C. PARKER, International News Service Staff Correspondent.

LONDON, July 25.—The British foreign office is renewing its pressure on Washington for a preliminary conference of ambassadors of the Pacific powers in London to discuss Far Eastern problems. It was learned this afternoon. Great Britain wishes the British dominion premiers to have representation in the meeting of ambassadors if it can be arranged.

It is understood that a new communication has been sent to Washington.

Earlier in the day it had been reported that Washington had rejected the proposal for a preliminary conference.

TOKYO, July 25.—America's reply to Japan's query regarding the scope of the proposed disarmament conference has been communicated to Japan by Secretary of State Hughes. It was announced at the state department today.

The opinion is prevailing that Japan will formally announce her acceptance of President Harding's invitation within a few days.

By HARRY L. ROGERS, International News Service Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, July 25.—A complete statement of the attitude of the United States with regard to the scope of the proposed disarmament conference has been communicated to Japan by Secretary of State Hughes. It was announced at the state department today.

By A. L. BRADFORD, United Press Staff Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, July 25.—The British empire will have only one voice in the Washington disarmament conference, the United Press was informed today.

Representatives of Britain's self-governing dominions will be included in the delegation, but Secretary Hughes, it is understood, will inform Britain that it is the attitude of his government that the empire have but one vote.

The personnel of the British delegation and the dominion representation is arousing speculation. It is expected that all of the Pacific dominions—Canada, Australia and New Zealand—will want to be represented, and it is thought that at least two of the British delegates will be chosen from among them. From the list of the Pacific dominions, Premier Hughes of Australia, and Premier Massey of New Zealand. It is also believed that Jan C. Smuts, premier of South Africa, will be a delegate.

Officials here now think it is certain that Secretary of State Hughes will head the American delegation. Former Secretary of State Root is regarded almost as a certainty.

BY INTERNATIONAL NEWS SERVICE

LONDON, July 25.—The government is not yet able to name its representatives to the disarmament and post conference at Washington, Premier Lloyd George said in the House of Commons today in reply to a question.

It has been widely reported that Lloyd George himself would head the British delegation.

Life Term For Death Car Drivers Urged

LOS ANGELES, July 25.—Life imprisonment for motorists who deal out death and to stop after the accident was urged by Chief of Police Charles Jones here today.

"We are having too many of these occurrences," Jones declared. "There is only one way to stop them, and that is to provide a punishment that will be feared and respected."

"It may be an unavoidable accident in which a motorist strikes a pedestrian, but it is a deadly criminal act to leave the victim dying in the road and speed away for fear of being questioned."

Jones' statement was made immediately after probably fatal injuries sustained by V. L. Webb and John and Albert Alvarado, injured by a car which sped away and left them without help.

that he was for the police department and its personnel but that if any member was found guilty of misconduct, suspension and possibly prosecution will follow.

In a halting voice Barbour proprietor of the rooming house where Suppo was fatally shot by Nightingale on the evening of July 11, declared before court opened that an unknown man had offered him and his wife $2000 to withdraw from the Nightingale murder trial and drop the prosecution.

BARBOUR TELLS STORY OF ALLEGED BRIBE EFFORT

It was last Thursday afternoon Barbour said, that a man whom he had never seen before, came to the front door and asked if he might have a private talk with him. Barbour followed him to a spot in the yard under a tree, he said, and the stranger, after looking around suspiciously, said:

"Barbour, will you take $2000—you and your wife—to lay off this Nightingale murder trial?"

"I immediately asked him who he was," Barbour said, "but the stranger replied in a gruff voice to never mind who he was. He kept on saying that the money was mine if I wanted it and that if I would come with him he would put $2000 in money in my hands within ten minutes."

"But goodbye to you if you double cross us and testify in the murder case after I pay you this money," Barbour asserts the stranger said.

Barbour says he told the stranger, however, that there was not enough money in the United States to buy him off.

The man was described by Barbour as being about five feet, nine inches in height, about 135 pounds in weight, very dark complexioned and smooth shaven. After he had refused the money the stranger, with an exclamation of anger, hurried away from the house toward Ninth street, where he was believed that an automobile was awaiting him, according to Barbour.

"Immediately after the man had gone," Barbour asserted, "I went to the telephone and called up Commissioner Frank Colbourn. His secretary informed me that Mr. Colbourn was not in, but that he would most certainly be informed of the occurrence."

Barbour was alone in the house at the time the stranger came in his visit. Mrs. E. E. Casey, who had been left in charge of the house while Mrs. Barbour was testifying in police court in the murder trial, had left only a few moments before for church.

Fred Donahue, prosecuting attorney, who is prosecuting the murder charge against Nightingale, said today that he had been informed of the alleged attempt at bribe and had been attempting to trace the man described by Barbour.

Nightingale's story of the shooting is that Suppo and Pasquale Gilio, his cousin, attempted to resist him when he came to arrest them on charges preferred by a boy. Suppo died two days later at the county hospital, and Barbour, who witnessed the shooting from his window, swore out a warrant charging murder.

TWO S. F. YOUTHS JAILED FOR AN ATTACK ON GIRLS

Young Women Cause Arrest
Of Men On Felony
Assault Charge.

SAN FRANCISCO, July 25.—Following the kidnapping of two girls in an automobile by two young men with whom they were slightly acquainted and the attempted assault on one of them, the police arrested Albert Rivera, 22, of 48 Crane street, and Charles Slick, 19, of 32 Exeter street, early today and charged them at the Potrero station with attempted felonious assault.

The alleged victims are Florence Ayer, 15, of 1058 Sulliman street, and Ethel Corder, 17, 219 Slavin street.

Only one of the girls, Florence Ayer, was actually attacked, Ethel Corder having made her escape by jumping from a moving automobile.

Miss Ayer is at the Central Emergency Hospital in a hysterical condition and under the care of physicians.

"FRENCHY" SUGGESTS AN AUTO RIDE.

According to statements made by the two girls, they were walking last night along the San Bruno road to the Five Mile House in company with a smaller girl. On their return the younger girl left them and finally they went to a store to make a purchase, where they met a man known to them as "Frenchy."

They were on their way home with "Frenchy" when they came across "Frenchy" suggested that they go for a ride, saying that he would get an automobile.

Soon afterward two boys drew up who were known to "Frenchy." They had a small car and they turned it over to the boys who promptly invited the two girls to ride.

The girls refused to go and then, according to Miss Ayer, they were both forced into the machine. Miss Corder was pulled into the back seat with Slick, while Miss Ayer was forced beside "Frenchy," who was driving. They had hardly got started when the Corder jumped out.

Miss Ayer says they drove to "Frenchy's" home at 48 Crane street. There she says the two boys compelled her to enter the house and as she reached the inside three her own on a stairway, gagged her and attempted an attack upon her. She screamed, tore herself away and told them she was going to notify the police.

TAKES POLICE TO SCENE OF ATTACK.

She first went home and later found Patrolman Frank Gau. Returning with him to the scene of the attack, Gau arrested "Frenchy," who gave the name of Albert Rivera.

They then went to the home of Slick, where he too was taken into custody. Later the officers interrogated Ethel Corder and obtained a corroboration of the story.

"I was out for a walk with my friend Ethel Corder and another girl," said Florence Ayer, in a statement to the police. "We went as far as the Five Mile House and were returning when we met 'Frenchy,' visited a store and were about to go home when we met the second boy, Slick. They invited us for a ride and we did not want to go but they forced us into the machine. Ethel jumped over my head and tried to gag me. I don't know how I finally got away from him, but I did and I first went home and then got the policeman."

SAN FRANCISCO, July 25.—In most emphatic terms denials that his wife, Alma P. Mack, horsewhipped Mrs. Caroline Paskin, of the Columbia hotel, and that Mrs. Paskin, his alleged affinity, was lured to his offices by friends prior to the supposed horsewhipping, were made in a statement issued today by William H. Mack, realty broker, 559 Monadnock building. In every detail, in no uncertain terms, Mack denies all of the allegations made by his wife, as to his intimacy with Mrs. Caroline "Peggy" Paskin.

Mack was accused by his wife, Mrs. Alma P. Mack, of undue intimacy with other women and cruelty upon them not would be a divorce complaint, she had horsewhipped his affinity and would horsewhip him should the occasion warrant it.

Grocer Is Robbed By Armed Bandit

An unmasked bandit, armed with a revolver, entered the grocery store which is conducted by R. W. Gorman, 1900 Hopkins street, covered him with the revolver and took $14 from the cash register.

"Stand still, don't move or I'll shoot," said the bandit as he walked into the store.

As he was leaving he told Gorman not to telephone to the police. After the robber had been gone a few minutes, Gorman took a street car and came to the city hall, where he reported the hold-up to Night Captain of Inspectors George Powers.

JAPANESE WILL BE ARRESTED TO TEST POLL TAX

Case Will Be Immediately Taken Before Supreme Court.

Arrangements for the arrest next Monday of a prominent Japanese, to test the constitutionality of the alien poll tax law before the supreme court, was made today by County Clerk George E. Gross, acting attorney for the Japanese association. Heikichi Terui, secretary of the Japanese Businessmen's Association, will be the man arrested.

Gross said the tax will not be begun Monday as was planned by County Assessor I. Harrison Clay, it was also announced. The assessor will wait until a decision is handed down in the test case.

Elliot called on Gross and brought with him Heikichi Terui. It was decided some time ago, after a conference with District Attorney George E. Gross, that it would be necessary to wait until the period for registration had expired on August 1 before an alien would be arrested for refusing to register and a satisfactory test case created.

WILL SEEK WRIT.
Terui, who has not registered, will submit to arrest and immediately following this, he will seek a writ of habeas corpus to release him on his own recognizance. An application for a writ of habeas corpus will then be filed with the supreme court.

The latter is not now in session. It is expected to secure a special session en banc and a decision within ten days or two weeks. Gross has selected J. B. Martin, a deputy, to act after the arrest.

NO DEPUTIES HIRED.
County Assessor I. Harrison Clay said today in reference to delaying the collection of the tax:

"It is expected a decision in the matter will be handed down in a very short time. It would be very unwise for me to expend county money for the payment of deputies acting as collectors, when the law itself provides that if it is overthrown by the courts all money collected from aliens must be returned. Thus the county would lose whatever money is paid to the deputies for their services. Furthermore, I am allowed a deputy collector for each of the aliens on the lists turned over to me by the county clerk. I do not receive those lists until August 1, so I cannot tell how many to appoint until after that time."

County Clerk Gross said today the law in question has caused a great increase in naturalization of aliens. Already this year he has had 1,000 applications for final citizenship papers, as against 543 filed during all of last year. Thus the number has more than doubled.

PASADENA, July 25.—Judge Benjamin Hanna, president of the Massachusetts Metaphysical College and a resident of Pasadena since 1911, died at his residence here early yesterday. He was 77 years old and was married.

Judge Hanna succeeded Mrs. Mary Baker Eddy as president of the Metaphysical College and had been engaged in the work of the Christian Science church since 1890, when he was in charge of the society in Scranton, Pa. Two years later he was given charge of the Christian Science journal in Boston, and he also came the first editor of the Weekly Sentinel. He continued his editorial work until 1902 and was a pastor of the mother church at Boston. In 1902 he then took up lecture work for the church and continued it until after he moved to Pasadena. Thereafter he conducted classes for the church and devoted his time to writing for its various publications.

Girl Bears Name
She Drew From Hat
Three years ago the three fates took a hand in the affairs of three young women, three Yank soldiers at the front and three bits of paper tossed into a hat. Each bit of paper bore the name of a soldier upon it. The three young women used this method of deciding which soldier to write to. Miss Rae Ward, a singer from Brooklyn, drew the name of Holman E. Van der Valk of California. A correspondence followed, which developed into a romance.

On June 30 Miss Ward arrived in Oakland from the east. She and Winfrey were married an hour after Miss Ward's arrival. The wedding was kept secret until yesterday when the license was recorded. Winfrey and his bride are living at 216 Kentucky street, Alhambra.

Boy Scouts at Sheoak Camp Win Rifle Honors

Merit Badges Given Youngsters; 42 Advanced To First Class Rank.

Achievements of the Boy Scouts at the 1921 outing at Camp Sheoak numbered everything from painting both the inside and outside of the new mess and recreation hall to winning state honors on the rifle range, according to a statement issued by H. J. Bemiss, scout executive, on the accomplishments of the boys.

Bemiss states that eighty per cent of the medals for marksmanship awarded to Boy Scouts in California during the year were presented to boys at the Oakland camp during the summer. Fifty-five boys proved their efficiency in handling a rifle under the direction of Captain H. J. Flexsner of Oakland, United States army officer assigned to the camp as an instructor.

PAINT DONATED.
Sufficient paint to cover both the inside and outside of the new mess hall was donated by F. J. Hill of Oakland and the paint applied by the boys. Kenneth Stewart, Oakland scout, had the honor of being the youngest painter on the job, and also the most proficient in covering himself in paint before the day's work was over, Bemiss says.

During the summer five sessions of the Court of Honor were held to pass upon the advancement of 240 boys for merit badges in various degrees of Scout work. Forty boys who attended the camp were raised to the rank of first-class scout, six won the badge of star scout, and one attained the rank of eagle scout, the highest in scouting.

A total of 681 boy weeks were spent at the camp, corresponding to 681 boys spending one week each at the outing place in the hills, more than 200 youths were enrolled, however, Bemiss says, as the majority spent two weeks and a few six weeks under the tutelage of the scoutmasters.

EVERY BOY ADVANCED.
An instructor in first aid was assigned to the camp this summer and every boy in attendance advanced at least one rank in this work while many advanced two or three grades. Swimming and wireless were the two popular phases of the camp program, Bemiss declares. Thirty boys attended the class in wireless.

During the 5th and 6th of August there will be held in the Yosemite Valley, the annual Indian Field Days. To these days of sport will come all the Indians in the surrounding country, together with those of the Mono Lake reservation, as well as the cowboys and cowgirls of the nearby ranches.

The two days are to be filled with a variety of horseback riding, races, wild variety of horsemanship, races, ballets, broncho busting and special riding, will keep the crowd thrilled every moment of the time. Prizes to the amount of $2,000 are to be distributed to the most skillful of the contestants.

Besides the field events, there are to be some of a less dangerous nature. Costume prizes, athletic events, special dances, an Indian baby contest and an extraordinary display of fireworks from the great Half Dome, will fill the days of the festival.

These sports are held under the joint direction of the national park service and the concessionaires of Yosemite. The latter are in charge of the visitors of the valley as one of the series of special feature entertainments conducted during the summer.

Transportation into the valley is now at its best. The roads are in excellent condition and it is possible, by means of the new "Tioga Tour," to combine the trip to Yosemite with a tour of Lake Tahoe. This takes the tourist over the famous Tioga road, one of the few highways in the world that surmounts the crest of a mountain range. During this trip one sees at close range the beautiful peaks of the Sierra Nevada, with their snow fields and glaciers, rushing streams, azure lakes and alpine meadows.

During the field days there will be plenty of accommodations, of every kind, to be had in the valley. A late spring has kept the waterfalls in excellent condition and the prevailing cool weather has brought the flowers to their best. Altogether it is an ideal time to make a trip to the Yosemite country.

WILLARD BATTERY CONVENIENT.
SAN FRANCISCO, July 25.—(Special for THE TRIBUNE).—Electric storage battery experts from this and surrounding states gathered here today at a convention conducted by the Willard Storage Battery Company of Cleveland. These experts, most of them service station proprietors and managers, listened to a message on the value of advertising, brought to them by S. W. Roins, assistant to the general manager, H. S. Gardner, sales manager, and S. E. Baldwin, advertising manager.

Asserting that business men generally should realize that it is not a case of "business coming back," but of "business going back," these three men urged the battery dealers to make a definite appropriation for newspaper space, said Baldwin in a talk to the meeting. "See that it is large enough to do the job right. Use big space, and above all, be consistent and continuous advertisers. Don't be 'in-and-outers.'"

Baldwin said that the Willard company was showing its own faith in this doctrine by expanding its advertising to the largest volume ever of the company. This included advertising in 82 newspapers from coast to coast.

Those attending the Willard convention in San Francisco were Dr. H. H. Harrison, manager of the Auto Electric Service Co. representatives in Alameda county.

Venezuela Revolt Plot Nipped, Leaders Jailed
By FRANK E. MASON, International News Service Staff Correspondent.
(Copyright, 1921, by International News Service)

BERLIN, July 25.—Amazing disclosures of a revolutionary plot against the government of President Gomez of Venezuela, which might have threatened the Monroe doctrine, if successful, were made here today by German sea captain, Erich Hirschfeld.

Hirschfeld also declared that negotiations had been opened with Germany to get arms, and that similar negotiations had been broached at Rome. Hirschfeld, finding that he was being "double-crossed" financially, revealed the plot to the German government and the plans fell through.

Hirschfeld implicated Dr. Xetorga Martinez, former minister of Venezuela, General Alcantara, former minister of interior, and another former Venezuelan who is now a citizen of Holland and a banker. Following the exposure, Alcantara was arrested on board a ship that had been purchased to carry arms and ammunition from Europe to South America.

Hirschfeld is a seaman and formerly commanded a ship. He did not explain how he originally became involved in the plot. His story, as told to the International News Service, follows:

Martinez and Alcantara commissioned me to buy 10,000 rifles, 6,000 cartridges, twenty to thirty machine guns, four field pieces of artillery, two airplanes with the necessary bombs, and one rapid 100-ton steamer for transportation of troops. They wanted a suit-maintained by the United States on each day he stayed.

Despite the strong demand for a fourth session of the camp this summer, Bemiss states that conditions were such that but three two-week sessions could be held. Next year he hopes plans will be made for keeping the outing place open during the entire vacation period, so that every scout in Oakland may attend at least two weeks.

This takes the tourist over the famous Tioga road, one of the few highways in the world that surmounts the crest of a mountain range. During this trip one sees at close range the beautiful peaks of the Sierra Nevada, with their snow fields and glaciers, rushing streams, azure lakes and alpine meadows.

During the field days there will be plenty of accommodations, of every kind, to be had in the valley. A late spring has kept the waterfalls in excellent condition and the prevailing cool weather has brought the flowers to their best. Altogether it is an ideal time to make a trip to the Yosemite country.

WILLARD BATTERY CONVENIENT.
SAN FRANCISCO, July 25.—(Special for THE TRIBUNE).—Electric storage battery experts from this and surrounding states gathered here today at a convention conducted by the Willard Storage Battery Company of Cleveland. These experts, most of them service station proprietors and managers, listened to a message on the value of advertising, brought to them by S. W. Roins, assistant to the general manager, H. S. Gardner, sales manager, and S. E. Baldwin, advertising manager.

Asserting that business men generally should realize that it is not a case of "business coming back," but of "business going back," these three men urged the battery dealers to make a definite appropriation for newspaper space, said Baldwin in a talk to the meeting. "See that it is large enough to do the job right. Use big space, and above all, be consistent and continuous advertisers. Don't be 'in-and-outers.'"

Baldwin said that the Willard company was showing its own faith in this doctrine by expanding its advertising to the largest volume ever of the company. This included advertising in 82 newspapers from coast to coast.

Those attending the Willard convention in San Francisco were Dr. H. H. Harrison, manager of the Auto Electric Service Co. representatives in Alameda county.

Venezuela Revolt Plot Nipped, Leaders Jailed

BERLIN, July 25.—Amazing disclosures of a revolutionary plot against the government of President Gomez of Venezuela, which might have threatened the Monroe doctrine, if successful, were made here today by German sea captain, Erich Hirschfeld.

Hirschfeld also declared that negotiations had been opened with Germany to get arms, and that similar negotiations had been broached at Rome. Hirschfeld, finding that he was being "double-crossed" financially, revealed the plot to the German government and the plans fell through.

Hirschfeld implicated Dr. Xetorga Martinez, former minister of Venezuela, General Alcantara, former minister of interior, and another former Venezuelan who is now a citizen of Holland and a banker. Following the exposure, Alcantara was arrested on board a ship that had been purchased to carry arms and ammunition from Europe to South America.

Hirschfeld is a seaman and formerly commanded a ship. He did not explain how he originally became involved in the plot. His story, as told to the International News Service, follows:

Martinez and Alcantara commissioned me to buy 10,000 rifles, 6,000 cartridges, twenty to thirty machine guns, four field pieces of artillery, two airplanes with the necessary bombs, and one rapid 100-ton steamer for transportation of troops. They wanted a suit-

STRIKE APPEAL TO BE MADE TO ALL BAY UNIONS

Statement Outlining Both Sides of Controversy To Be Issued.

Following its decision to appeal to the various individual labor unions in the bay district on the general strike proposition, the strike committee of the conference committee of the building trades unions of the bay district is preparing a "statement of facts," a statement will be sent to the individual labor unions, and will purport to give both sides of the controversy, it is said.

Plans for the organization of workers are being perfected today, according to a statement issued by James B. Dewar, an active member of the conference committee. The committee will be organized along the same lines as the employers' association, according to Dewar, and will be composed of representatives of all unions irrespective of their affiliations.

Charles W. Gompertz, president of the Builders' Exchange, and William H. George, chairman of the executive committee of the building trades union, today said that as far as the exchange is concerned the building union is at an end.

"We are hiring both union and non-union workers," he stated. "We have given members of the building trades unions every opportunity to adjust their difficulties. There is nothing left for us to do."

A labor police force composed of ex-service men, to cooperate with the regularly constituted authorities, was recommended by the members of the Builders' Exchange Conference, following a meeting, which lasted throughout this morning.

The only other important outcome of the day's meeting was the selection of a sub-committee to meet tonight with the Iron Trades Council in an endeavor to obtain an affirmative vote on the general strike plan.

PRESIDENT BACK FROM CAMP TRIP
WASHINGTON, July 25.—President Harding returned to Washington at 8 o'clock last night from the camp near Big Pool, Md., where he spent Saturday.

BIG POOL, Md., July 25.—President Harding ended his camping expedition yesterday.

The President attended impromptu church services held in a little grove adjoining the camp, where he and Henry Ford, Thomas A. Edison, Harvey S. Firestone and Bishop William A. Anderson of the Methodist Episcopal church, had roughed it overnight.

Bishop Anderson officiated. Mounted on one of Firestone's thoroughbreds, the President and several others of the party in the morning took a turn through the woods. At a country store nearby the President telephoned to the White House to ask about Mrs. Harding, who is ill, and received reassuring reports.

The experience here has provided the President with his first real opinion on the merits of the camp. He is reported to be very much pleased with the camp, and has received a message from the White House, brought to them by S. W. Roins, assistant to the general manager, H. S. Gardner, sales manager, and S. E. Baldwin, advertising manager.

Asserting that business men generally should realize that it is not a case of "business coming back," but of "business going back," these three men urged the battery dealers to make a definite appropriation for newspaper space, said Baldwin in a talk to the meeting. Tribune Picnickers Have Joyous Day at Monticello

Why? The TRIBUNE bunch so gay? Laughter's left from yesterday. Every child and every fellow Had SOME time at Monticello!

A thrilling rescue by a pair of impromptu heroes, a juicy pie contest and a mad race upon the Monticello Saucer with speed burning wheelbarrows were among the many features of the Oakland TRIBUNE eighth annual picnic at Monticello Grove yesterday. Hundreds of half a thousand joyous picnickers packed two boats chartered from the Crowley Launch company, arriving at Monticello Grove near San Rafael, shortly before noon.

After a hearty lunch, the day's program started at 12:45 with a juvenile show on the dance platform under the direction of Beverly Swaby. Among the TRIBUNE's clever little stars who shone in this production were Dorothy Burke, Evelyn Leach, Bernice Claire Johnson, Albert Blair, Lorene Rowell, Evelyn Cavannah, Bernice Blundin, Violet Taylor, Betty Jane Teeple and Dorothy Matthews. Singing and dancing specialties featured the performance, which was roundly applauded.

BASEBALL GAME.
Dancing was the next joy number on the program for the day. It began at 1:15 and continued until 2:15. While the dancing was in progress a hotly contested baseball game was held on the athletic field between Fred Waldstein's "Live Wire" "Carriers" of District 4 and "Hans" Courtney's "All Star Carriers" District 2. The All Stars put a few kinks in the spitting Live Wires, sending them the short end of the score.

At 3:15 the event of the day was pulled off in the form of what was conceded to be the juiciest and joyously messy-cake eating contest ever attempted outside the city limits of Pleville. Blackberry cream pie without any crust was the medium of expression employed by the pie eaters, who lined up as follows: First prize, Harry Hess, East Fifteenth street route; second prize, Sam Crabtree, Fountain route; third prize, Fred Collins, same route.

PRIZE WINNERS.
Here are a few more of the prize winners in athletic contests: 50-yard dash for ladies, first prize, Myrtle Heald; second prize, M. Mills; 50-yard dash, girls under 16, first prize, Evelyn Rowell; second prize, Dorothy Burke; egg race, girls under 16, first prize, Evelyn Luck; second prize, Annie Chitt; 75-yard dash, free for all men, first prize, M. Mills; second prize, Burke; egg race, girls under 16, first prize, Evelyn Luck; second prize, Annie Chitt; 75-yard dash, free for all men, first prize, M. Mills; second prize, Burke.

BOYS' HOAT ADRIAT.
An exciting event that was not scheduled on the regular program was an actual life-saving demonstration staged by the Poles, aided by William Greenfield of the TRIBUNE, by Edward Bennett, sailor who is a brother-in-law of Bernice Claire Johnson by a cousin and by an experimentally inclined small boy. The boy got adrift in the boat and Greenfield and Bennett, who were in the boat, were being carried out into the bay.

In addition to TRIBUNE employees, their friends and the parents of the children, a large number were included in the list of picnickers. Wm. Greenfield was chairman of the picnic committee, and the other committees were headed by the following: Transportation committee, A. H. Stone, A. C. Phelps, dance committee, Louis Martinez, chairman, Miss Louise Bruns, Miss M. J. Stuart and Harry Miller, games and races committee, Beverly Swaby, chairman, I. Hicks, A. W. Henning, A. H. Stone, Harry Miller, Wm. Greenfield, A. C. Phelps, Fred Collins, Fred King, Wm. Harrison, Harry E. Lark, Wm. Ayers, Fred Waldstein and Ham Courtney.

LIBRARY AIDS IMMIGRANT Get High School English
Strangely paralleling the emotional response to America's public library system, which Mrs. Mary E. King, who has been in charge of the library since its opening, has given permission for next term low senior English certificate, and then of joy I was admitted to the high school where I was successfully finished first term and was given permission for next term low senior English certificate.

"Now I am on the road that leads to higher education. University, the greatest ambition in my life. Everything that I have accomplished in this short time, if it worth while, I owe to public library, for it would have been absolutely impossible for a poor immigrant to afford to pay the amount necessary to buy the books for high education."

IMMIGRANT'S NEEDS.
"This concerning myself, but before conclude I want to say a few words about the average immigrant and explain why there is a so many number of them attending libraries. There is a general need of good books that should be written expressly for them with true American spirit and without any prejudice show them this country in its true aspect, in its full light. Familiarize them with its customs in a way that they would understand and then I am sure that it would attract thousands of them no matter how primitive they are, would set them with enthusiasm for that country that they have never dreamed that some day I would have free access."

HIGH SCHOOL ENGLISH.
"I found books that gave me ideas of American people, its way of living, and made me a devote admirer of America, and an eager aspirant to her citizenship. After few months I succeeded in obtaining eight grade certificate, and then of joy I was admitted to the high school where I was successfully finished first term and was given permission for next term low senior English certificate."

BENEFICES ATTRACTIVE.
"A year or ago I came to U. S. with no knowledge of English language and perfectly ignorant of customs and ways of living of American people. Since first days I have been a regular attendant of the West Oakland library and of course a constant but poor reader because of my English."

"Gradually I was improving. The library became a more attractive to me. I was greatly amazed, for I found literary masterpieces which in my country were accessible only to the richer and higher classes, and to which I never dreamed that some day I would have free access."

ACTIVITIES OF WOMEN

Mrs. Childs and Her Family Leave for South

Mrs. Stephen Childs, with her young son, Ozro, and Miss Emeline, who came up from Los Angeles for the marriage of her niece, Mrs. Lloyd Roberts—Frances Redman—returned to Montecito on Saturday, where the family is spending the summer.

Young Ozro, whose literary propensities have put him in touch with the big publishers of the country, will soon be at his annual tasks of making a "book" on his vacation in Piedmont, his sense of humor making the typed affair a diversion for his and the family's friends. To this vacation is added the excitement of his cousin's wedding, at which his little sister assisted as flower girl. His version should be worth reading.

Vacation over, the family will return to their Los Angeles home, one of the most interesting establishments of the South.

Mrs. Landers Redman is planning a visit with her kinwomen soon after she and Mr. Redman are installed at the Fairmont, where they will make their home.

Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Dingwell, who have made their home in Los Angeles for some time, are guests for a week at the home of Mrs. George Park, mother of Mrs. Dingwell.

Mrs. Lloyd Elmore Phillips will sail this week for Shanghai, where she will join her husband, who is established in business in the Oriental settlement.

Mrs. Phillips was Helen Blackford, a University of California girl.

MOTORING TO SANTA BARBARA.
Mr. and Mrs. Harry Fair of Piedmont are in Santa Barbara to attend the birthday celebration of Mrs. John Bell Moon, mother of Mrs. Fair, and one of the grand dames of the Eastbay.

The Pairs will set out for home in time to permit Mrs. Fair to meet her guests at luncheon on August third, when she will entertain at the Town and Country Club in honor of Miss Marion Lee Cobbs of Covington—a guest of the Christian Millers.

Mrs. Moon and Miss Annie Miller will remain at Santa Barbara till the season wanes.

Incidentally, Montecito is the objective of the William Griffith Henshaws, who are returning from an epochal visit in Paris, where, according to recent chronicles Mrs. Alla Henshaw Chickering was very much in the center of things. The family is looked for in the West before the end of August.

CHILSTEENING OF YOUNG SON.
John Laurence Russell, young son of the John Henry Russells, was given his name yesterday with all the religious and social ceremony that should accompany the baptism of the great grandson of the Requa household.

Miss Betty Barroll, with Edward Kester and Jack McKenzie, were sponsors for the little fellow, about whom had assembled a large group of relatives and family friends a dinner following the service at "Greystone," the home of the Mark Requa, his grandparents.

The Russells are visiting at Greystone, where they will remain through the dog days, closing their Los Angeles home until the end of September.

'SCIENTIST' HELD AS GASOLINE THIEF

Charles L. Baender, mathematician and scientist and former college professor, is in the Oakland city jail again. With two companions, C. L. Baender, 735 Nineteenth street, and Guy Hoover, 276 Thirtieth street, he was arrested last night by Patrolman Matthew Jones.

According to Jones he came upon the party at Tenth and Webster streets. Here he saw the men, whom he arrested, were engaged in siphoning gasoline from an automobile owned by A. W. Rickard, 2722 Bancroft way, Berkeley, into the gas tank of their own automobile with a piece of rubber hose.

Police say that it is a clear case of gasoline theft and expect to gain a conviction of the men.

Baender has been in police court many times for theft, arrested on charges of murder, burglary and numerous other crimes, but invariably has cleared himself by his own ingenuity on the witness stand once when he was caught with a set of counterfeiting dies he was sentenced to serve a year in the city jail.

"PINKIE" TINKLES WITH LAUGHTER

"Glad you like it"—the full text of Maude Fulton's eloquence yesterday, emphasized by various multiples of oscillations at the end of the second act of "Pinkie"—the premiere of her newest play—her sixth, incidentally.

And the curtain call came from an overfull house; the azure sky and the beckoning hills notwithstanding. And a troupe that laughed hilariously where it should—and once or twice where it shouldn't.

Audiences, not hand-picked, have an awkward way of doing that where comedy and tragedy are near to the other. Today the blue pencil will catch the places. Watch it tonight.

But isn't it far better to have too many laughs than too few?

And "Pinkie" provides a full field of them—clean, honest, healthy laughs, if their provocation is at times a bit obvious. And any daughter can bring Dad Mother to the play with perfect impunity, and be sure Father will tackle his job the next day with more form than he has shown since his last good laugh.

True, "Pinkie" is not at the Fulton, like some other productions, has to do with thieves. But they are a sublimated kind of underworld gang, and are managed by "Lady"—Lea Penman—who is distinguished (she uses the word herself, proving the point), and enormously good to look at. And she furnishes the brains of her outfit, even if she does it with a superb disdain for the code of honor that is said to obtain among thieves. A finely drawn—and acted—character.

The story runs around a diamond necklace that a breezy middle-westerner, who had "cleaned up on tar soap," buys for his daughter, whom he is trying to launch in society in the Big Town.

They find it a bit hard to break in, and they fall into "Lady's" trap, who carries all the earmarks of "belonging." And part of her game—the annexing of the necklace—is the temporary adoption of "Pinkie," a little bed-maker in a New York hotel.

The playwright-actor lady has given the thief-play a new angle—the outlaw breaking into the safe to put something into it instead of out of it.

While the new style is interesting—being different—the character of "The Strange Young Man" needs a few keener strokes in the drawing, to keep step with "Lucy" Mullins and the little redhead in the title role.

For a premiere, the show was amazingly smooth, and the night performance was better. Incidentally, so much better that tonight's show—after the pruning and padding that Mrs. Fulton had last night promised herself—and for which she forewent a perfectly good supper party—ought to add to her success as a play-builder.

"Is it as good as 'The Brat,' or 'The Humming Bird,'" you ask.

Why go into comparisons, when the new play offers so delightful a session, and with so much clean, healthy humor.

Scientifically it was happily handled, for which Robert Ober is responsible, as well as the part of the honest burglar.

"Pinkie" is a Chicago product, worked out in the first three weeks of March, between plays. A busy little lady, and a busy little man, who not only produces them but plays in them and sees that the rest of the cast toes the scratch.

THEATER

T. & D.
With Charles Ray in "The Old Sumner Hole" at the T. & D. Theater, James Whitcomb Riley's famous poem has been done into a masterpiece for the screen. Ray is in love with the heartless little girl who loves to break little boys' hearts, but Esther wins him away; his friend "Skinny" plays him false; he is caught robbing the apple orchard; his dog "Whiskers" follows him to school and breaks up the class, and many other familiar scenes.

Pauline Frederick is on the program in "Salvage." Pauline Frederick has in "Salvage" created a role in which she reaches the apex of her art.

AMERICAN
"Show Blind." Katherine Newlin Burr's wonderful successor to her world famous "The Branding Iron," is the headline play of the double bill at the American. Constance Binney appears in "The Magic Cup," an adaptation of E. Lloyd Sheldon's celebrated tale.

"Show Blind" is a stirring story of the olden times, which is told through the eyes of a girl who, blinded by looking on the expense of northern show after day, comes to the realization of her own worth through the loss of the physical function.

Constance Binney's offering tells the story of a young man who comes in a setting of mystery. Topics of the picture are "Salvage," "The Jew," and "The Old Sumner Hole," and his orchestra round out the bill.

LOEW'S STATE
"Lure of Youth." Metro special production, opened a 3-day engagement at Loew's State theater yesterday. The story is from the pen of Luther Reed.

The Five Virginia Belles presented by Cantor and his orchestra in "A Piano Diversion," are popular, while other acts score hits among them being Joyce Morris and Edna Towne in "A Fool for Twelve Minutes," Elmer and Clarence Stanley in "The Little Girl," and "The Frog Man," in a novelty specialty.

Paul Ash and his symphony-jazz orchestra are on the program.

Starting Wednesday, the State will picture the Goldwyn film, "The Conqueror," with the story of the statesman, Neil Barrett and Company in "The Rounder of Old Broadway," with their Loew circuit acts.

PANTAGES
Long Tack Sam and his wonder workers came back to Pantages yesterday. These parallel bar performers are now on their farewell tour of Europe as they are booked for next season.

Billy Smith and Sydney Stein sing catchy songs and play the piano. Frawley and Weston are the upright bars. Tim Whelan and Frisella King are a clever pair who provide an amusing sketch called "Suite 16," centering around a bathroom connecting two hotel rooms. Sally Carter, the famous Hebrew comic, assisted by Gwyneth Dorsey, entertains nicely with ten minutes of footlingness.

The Dempsey-Carpenter fight pictures are showing.

ARCADIA
An attractive double bill has been provided for the patrons of the Arcadia Dancing Palace for next Thursday evening. It will be "Hayward Night," with the leading candidate for Governor of the United States, Stanford, in attendance. The management has also arranged for a public wedding, the ceremony to take place at 8:30 p. m. The bride and groom will be given presents by some of the leading business houses. The names of the couple to be married has been withheld until the night of the wedding. The wedding souvenirs will be presented to all.

BROADWAY
For volcanic action, "The Speed Demon," starring Tom Mix at the New Broadway, has few parallels. Mix is portrayed as an indolent playboy who does not "come to life" until he has traded a silver horse for a silver auto.

"Pretty Lady," an enjoyable comedy, Movie Chats and a Pantomime episode complete the program.

Pola Negri appears in the world-famous role of DuBarry in "passion" tomorrow night. Wednesday, the French comedy, "Home Talent," follows Thursday and Friday.

FRANKLIN
Friday night will end "The Woman God Changed," and on Saturday will come "Carnival."

"The Woman God Changed" is Donn Byrne's compelling story of a dancer who killed a man and fled to the tropics. Harold Lloyd's "Among Those Present" and the unique Tony Sarge Shadowlough carry over the attractions, with little Clementine Ludwig, 7-year-old piano genius.

CHIMES
Pauline Frederick in "The Mistress of Shennstone," the latest picture in which the emotional actress is starred, opened at the Chimes Theater yesterday. The last screenings will take place tonight. The picture is a love drama of the intense type and might have been written especially for Pauline Frederick, no well does she fit the leading role.

Katherine McDonald in "Curtain," is a very pleasing drama of love and romance.

Beau Brummel Held As Robber On Trial
The unkempt appearance affected by "movie" actors when the script calls for portrayal of the horror of a night in jail was mocked and belied in superior court this morning when Irving Fisher, accused of attempted robbery, walked to the bar for trial. For all that sartorial nicety proclaimed he might have stepped out of his own limousine instead of a c-l-l.

Fisher, with Henry Hiden, is charged with attempting to hold up the store of John Souza, 532 Peralta street, on February 28. Hiden is to be brought to trial on Thursday. Souza resisted the attempt to rob him and was knocked down with the butt of Fisher's revolver, the police assert.

Victor Snook, deputy district attorney, appeared for the prosecution. Senator Frank Carr defended Fisher.

Train Time
The most accurate watches in the world are those carried by railroad men. Their timepieces are carefully inspected at frequent intervals to insure their continued accuracy. The variation of a few seconds a day might very well result in disaster to their trains. We are proud of the fact that we sell many watches to railroad men because it is proof of the high character of the watches we carry. All the watches in our stock, whether they be handsome open-face or hunting case watches for men or dainty wrist-watches for women, are warranted good timekeepers.

STAINED!

This is the open season for stains.

Dad acquires grease from the lawn mower and the motor car. A splash of strawberry sundae mars Daughter's middy. "Towser" prances with tarry feet on Son's shirt. Fruit juices tint Mother's table linen.

And all add to the trials of the family wash—unless you adopt the simple and economical way and leave your family bundle and your washday troubles with us.

The study and removal of stains is a specialty of the laundry industry—a specialty shared by the industry with us, and by us with you.

Are you familiar with the treatment for mildew? Or for arum lily, or for the stains from your copy pencil?

The removal of these and other marks is part of the service we give you when we do your family washing.

You turn the stains and the mussiness of Monday over to us when our route representative calls for your bundle.

Uncle Wiggly STORIES

By HOWARD R. GARDNER

He waited and waited and waited.

UNCLE WIGGLY AND THE SNAIL.

"Excuse me! I beg your pardon! I hope I didn't hurt you!" exclaimed Uncle Wiggly one day as he was hopping along with Nurse Jane Puzzy Wazzy, going to an afternoon moving picture show in the woods.

"What's the matter?" the muskrat lady hennepacker wanted to know as she looked around at the bunny rabbit gentleman, for Uncle Wiggly had come to a halt.

"I've stumbled over some little creature here on the path," spoke Mr. Longears. "I just wanted to make sure I had done it no harm."

"It's only a small, crawling snail!" exclaimed Nurse Jane, as she saw the small chap moving slowly along, with his shell house on his back and his horns sticking out like a little "Kiss Cow" as the old song has it.

"Oh, so it is a snail!" went on Uncle Wiggly.

"You aren't stopping to beg a snail's pardon, are you?" asked Nurse Jane, though she was very kind, was a bit hasty at times, especially when she was in a hurry to see the moving pictures.

"I'm sure you're not," said the snail's pardon, said Uncle Wiggly. "I can go so much faster than a snail that I ought to watch out and not step on him."

"Oh—that is all right," said the snail, speaking very, very, very slowly, the way he would speak when he was in a hurry to get to the moving pictures.

"I'm sure you're not," said the snail's pardon, said Uncle Wiggly. "I can go so much faster than a snail that I ought to watch out and not step on him."

"Oh—that is all right," said the snail, speaking very, very, very slowly, the way he would speak when he was in a hurry to get to the moving pictures.

The COUNTRY of UPSIDE DOWN

By Jack Burroughs

Chapter 37

The Decorative Salmon Cans

FOLLOWING the appearance of the pitiful remnants of Reddy Quackenback's story in the Upside Down Newspaper, it was decided to hold the Professors' Party without further delay.

But when they arrived at the little house beside the duck pond the Duckies quacked:

"Dear me! We must have decorations for the place. I wonder where I can find some bright, intelligent, clever, obliging person to help me out of this difficulty?"

She glanced sidewise at Corporal, the Roly Poly Pup, as she spoke, and Corporal stepping forward in his most dashing manner, barked: "Permit me to aid you, madam."

"I am only too glad to come to the aid of a duckess in distress."

The Duckies quacked her gratitude, and Corporal, with a bow, trotted away in search of decorations. He was away for several hours, and just when the others were about to despair of his return he came back followed by a long string of motor trucks, loaded with war relics.

"Here are your decorations," he barked. "Just a few of the souvenirs of my unparalleled military exploits."

"Quack! Quack!" cried the Duckies, in dismay, as one of the trucks drove up to all this trouble for them, but don't you think we'd better leave the heavy artillery outside? A cannon is not a proper decoration, you know."

"True enough, madam," Corporal agreed. "We'll use the heavy equipment for exterior decoration only."

"Thanks," whispered Reddy to the Duckies.

Of all the wartime souvenirs that one should cherish through the years, the humble salmon can is best. As many soldiers will attest.

For, perched upon the mantelpiece, it will not cause your life to cease. By blowing you to skies of blue. As shells and bombs so often do.

Let others praise the hand grenade. Or uniforms on dress parade. But I, a simple soldier man, Shall praise my friend, the salmon can!

Just Folks

By Edgar A. Guest

THE LESSON.

You will discover by and by. When you have grown as old as I. That certain men at whom you sneer, With habits strange and customs queer, And sometimes very coarse and crude, And in their conduct often rude, Grow rich while men of finer grain In humble poverty remain.

And no doubt, too, as oft have I. You'll notice this and wonder why— Why should the barren intellect The treasures of the world collect. While polished minds from day to day Must struggle for a meager pay? If ignorance to wealth can rise, Why be a gentleman and wise?

(Copyright, 1921, by Edgar A. Guest)

First day of the big vacation. Samuel Maverick, Texas statesman, after whom Maverick was named, was born in 1803. Lewis and Clark discovered the three forks of the Missouri river in 1805. Maxfield Parrish, the artist, who has done so much for glorious color and topiaste, has this for his birthday. He was born in 1870. It was in 1898 that the American troops landed in Porto Rico and did not like the cigars.

With today's Almanac we cannot help but feel that we have the best of the world. The Almanac family. While you are reading these lines we are on a vacation, and it all comes because we wrote the column two days ago. For that reason we are more than anxious to hear a report from anyone who uses it.

Another good way to do is to buy a cottage on a lake, or perhaps the lake itself, to import a stock of game fish and fix the place so attractive that the boss will ask you to entertain him there for a month.

And there are dozens of other plans, and we are sure you have thought of all of them. Poor devils. And not a one worked? If condolences are of any help, but there—

Sh-h. Just a minute. Thought I had a bite! THIS, OF COURSE, HAS NOTHING TO DO WITH VACATIONS.

A contrib in the New York Tribune sends in the following yell for the Volstead College:

POMMERY SEC! THREE X! Three X! Pommery Sec! Three X! Three X! Margaux! Bordeaux! Clignac! Hock!

"Am having a fine time." "The scenery is grand!"

Dear Geraldine: Give me your shoulder quickly. I want to cry, not because I am in sorrow but because I am just mad. Someone dared to tell me it was impossible for a girl to wear hiking trousers. Don't think that I am a school girl and wear them just because everyone else does. I am old enough to use my own judgment on the subject.

Then, too, some fellows think that girls should not wear hiking trousers. They think they are over-dressed in skirts so they don't wear them. Now comes the problem. What do you think about it?

I LIKE 'EM—IF YOU LIKE IN 'EM. That's my answer. Nothing more sensible than the hiking trousers for use in rough climbing was ever devised. But I do not believe in it as a costume for a girl. It is conspicuous and conspicuous dressing or acting is in the worst of bad taste. The woman or girl who wears khaki trousers, low-cut shoes and a comfortable blouse when climbing Mt. Tamalpais is but fel-lowing the dictates of common sense, but the one who arrays herself in a beaded gorgette, rope tie back, waist, fancy earrings, pearl necklace, pink silk sweater, French heels, pumps, puttees and riding trousers deserves the merry ha-ha from every other hiker on the trail, and I hope she gets it.

Women and Work

Still the argument wages as to whether married women should or should not work. As an argument, I fear it has no value. I have decided that THE RIGHT TO WORK is one of the most basic rights of the individual, irrespective of station or class. But as a discussion it is invaluable. It touches us to the heart about common facts of life, an indoor exercise which is all too rare for most of us.

Dear Geraldine: There has been a discussion about married women working, so here goes my chance. I myself do not work in married women working. It has been mentioned that single girls coming from wealthy homes do not need to work. It is just about as bad for them. But what about the girls who are alone? It is just time that they should after. Remember there are just as many poor as rich. Think about those who really need the money.

Have just read W. S. Fry's article on Blue Laws, and your answer, which was just fine. Can you beat it? "Dun" naming? But the Anti Blue Laws and saying that they don't know what they are arguing about. Well, he certainly doesn't know what he is talking about. Says we sleep on our backs a week just for more fortune, as people whom he styles "pleasure hogs." Bah!

I work for the railroad and not in the office, either. I can make a Sunday off by just asking for it or work steady and take off a week or more. I suppose he thinks fruits and eatables that are perishable will rot in the refrigerator. That I won't run on Sunday and give the farmer's boy. Why, he'd be the first one to holler if he didn't get his Sunday paper, or his Monday mail would arrive on Tuesday. I wonder if he has checked up on barber shops and grocery stores to see how many were opened. The few little grocery stores that do keep open, do it just to accommodate some neighbor in the neighborhood who forget or run short, and lots of them are just opened in the morning on Sunday.

We do not need a bunch of narrow-minded people to see themselves as guardians of our seventh-day morals. If he doesn't want any amusement on Sunday he doesn't have to go out and doesn't have to buy anything in stores that are opened. And don't call us slaves for the pleasure hogs, for we are not. On a Sunday when we take a day off we have a real good time and all the while we are working. For that reason we are more than anxious to hear a report from anyone who uses it.

Another good way to do is to buy a cottage on a lake, or perhaps the lake itself, to import a stock of game fish and fix the place so attractive that the boss will ask you to entertain him there for a month.

And there are dozens of other plans, and we are sure you have thought of all of them. Poor devils. And not a one worked? If condolences are of any help, but there—

"BACK TO NORMALCY"

Returns to Lloyds for the quarter ended June 30 show that world ship construction decreased approximately 900,000 tons from that of the first quarter of the year and the latter figures were less than 100,000 tons below those of the preceding three months. The United Kingdom has 2,813,000 tons more shipping under construction than the United States, and it amounts in all approximately to 60 percent of that now building in all parts of the world.

In the three months ended June 30, American shipping under construction dropped nearly 400,000 tons, British approximately 270,000 tons, and other countries combined, with the exception of Germany, for which complete returns are not available, about 250,000 tons.

The United States accounted for nearly one-half the decrease in shipbuilding during the three months ended June 30. The decrease for the current quarter will exceed that for the last quarter, for most yards are now closing up their last contracts and few new contracts of consequence are being let.

The reason for the slump is that there is enough tonnage in the world to carry the world's commerce and travel at the present rate of movement. Ships are a drug on the market. A recent dispatch from New York told of the purchase by an operator of an 8000-ton cargo steamer for $25 a ton. The ship was in first class shape and the buyer was able to select his purchase from half a dozen ships. The peak price for ships three years ago was $220 to $250 a ton, so this buyer was able to get a cargo vessel for $200,000 which three years ago would have cost him $2,000,000.

In one industry at least "normalcy" has about been reached, as that term refers to conditions prior to 1914. The boom time in the shipbuilding industry has passed and builders are now ready to face ordinary conditions and to meet such new demands as will be made under strong competition.

THE TROUBLE LOCATED.

The greatest handicap now facing Alaska is that of government, and this is one of the things that this Administration is going to straighten out without delay. The administration of this vast territory, which equals in size the States of Minnesota, Wisconsin, Illinois, Iowa, Kansas, Missouri and half of the Dakotas, is at the present time divided between so many different departments and bureaus that I would hesitate to number them. For instance, under the Department of the Interior is the Territorial Government itself, the railroads, education, and mines; highways and trails, telegraphs and telephones are under the War Department; forests and farms under the Department of Agriculture; the fish and seal industries under the Department of Commerce, and so on indefinitely.

Thus Secretary Fall of the Department of the Interior correctly summarizes the situation in Alaska. Tomes of literature have been printed on the history, resources and possibilities in Alaska. Most of them are true from beginning to end, but for the last several years they have been pathetic reminders of the killing, blasting effect of government muddling, of what inefficient, stubborn bureaucracy can do to hold a great empire back.

Secretary Fall makes a pledge of reform. He promises that the national administration will straighten out the government tangle at once and establish a new system that will give Alaska a chance. Division of authority and the inevitable conflicts that follow division have been a crime. We hope bureaucratic intrigue will not break down Mr. Fall's high resolution. We do not believe it will. But Alaska awaits fulfillment of his pledge.

CLOSING THE ACCOUNT.

Mr. Herbert Hoover has just rendered his final report as chairman of the Committee for Relief in Belgium. It shows that during the life of the commission food and clothing to the value of more than $1,300,000,000 was purchased and help given to 10,000,000 people in Belgium and northern France. This vast enterprise started in a small and simple way. When the boats began to unload in London refugee women and children from Brussels and Antwerp during those first days of the German invasion in August, 1914, Mr. Hoover was there. He saw that something must be done for their relief and that England had about as many troubles of her own as she could attend to. He asked a few fellow Americans in London to join him in relief work.

Thus what started as a small philanthropic enterprise, with what were hoped to be only temporary requirements, quickly developed into a great and splendid international effort to save a nation of afflicted people. Its operations were soon flung on a large scale and they had to be maintained for six years. It is a splendid story of humanity's better side, and America is proud that she had the major part in writing it.

MORAL CODE TIGHTER.

Either for want of something else of a spectacular nature to say, or out of infirm knowledge of history and powers of observation, there are a lot of persons crying that the moral code of today is more lax than it has ever been before, that violations of moral precepts are more frequent and serious than ever before. Clergymen, some of them of average prominence, join in this chorus of despair and try to make it appear that the world is going to the dogs.

But there is nothing to it; not the least provocation or excuse for fear or discouragement. The moral code has been gaining in strength and exactions and is steadily gaining. The standards of public and private conduct are higher today than ever before. There is less flaunting of the moral conventions. The profligate and the debauchee does not get into public office any more, unless he has reformed or his private record has been forgotten. Only a short time ago it was held inadvisable for a man who once had been bookkeeper for a brewery to run for political office.

Banks and all business concerns enforce rigid rules against immoral conduct on the part of their employees. In the small town, where everybody knows everybody else, private standards are severe and clean and the big city is getting more and more like the small town in this regard. More men commit suicide after a flagrant exposure of immorality than used to be the case and scandal drives more men from office and from associations of their fellow men than formerly.

The world is getting better and cleaner all the time. Instead of becoming more lax it is getting sterner in its rules and in its punishment for derelictions. There may be several reasons for this, but one is that it is harder to conceal and suppress knowledge of immoral and unlawful conduct. There may be more exposures now than formerly, because the newspapers are more uniformly attached to the policy that publicity is one of the best correctives and the best reformer at the disposal of a community.

Those who complain against the moral standard of society at large should not confuse exposures with offenses. We are told more about the lapses of individuals today than formerly, more about the crimes which forty or fifty years ago it was possible to cover up, or brazenly to carry on without any unfavorable reaction for the criminal. But that day is past.

July 16 was the one-hundredth anniversary of the birth of Mary Baker Eddy, founder of Christian Science. Curiously enough, her most devout followers differed markedly as to the propriety of commemorating the anniversary. The board of directors of the church issued a statement, calling attention to what they represented to be Mrs. Eddy's disapproval of any such celebration or commemoration. Those in favor of an observance of the anniversary intimated that the board of directors had forgotten about the centenary, and derided the efforts of the committee for that reason. They insist that the founder of Christian Science was not opposed to commemorating births, marriages and deaths.

There must be lots of money in the United States, for one New York show called "The Rat" has just reached the million dollar mark in box office receipts.

It must not be assumed that Jackson's Hole has undergone a miraculous reform merely because a Chautauqua session has been held there.

TOWARD LESSER TAX BURDENS.

At least some definite steps have been taken toward lessened Government expenditure. Promising developments in the matter of international disarmament are under way, prospects for cutting government expenditures on our merchant marine are brighter, plans are said to be fairly well developed for the institution of greater efficiency and economy in Government operations in Washington, and the Senate bonus bill has been recommended.

Much, it is true, remains to be done. In fact, only a beginning has been made. What will be accomplished in a practical way in the disarmament conference, now in session at Geneva, and in the future, will depend upon the wisdom with which changes are made. Moreover, numerous measures are pending in Congress which would prove expensive, as well as pernicious.

It is, however, encouraging to learn that the necessity of these important and far-reaching reforms has begun to be recognized in high and influential Government circles. With these movements well under way, it would be possible for our legislators to proceed to tax reforms with a real opportunity for lessening, to total burdens, as well as for adjusting the form and incidence of present taxes. The need now is for Congress to give these matters preference over the tariff.

—New York Journal of Commerce.

NOTES and COMMENT

The Tracy Press is impressed with the world's accelerated momentum. "The world never moved so fast before. We have winter ice Fourth of July, spring vegetables Christmas, straw hats in March and the women wear furs in August; we get our Sunday paper Saturday night and our magazine a week ahead of time. If we call a man in San Francisco from New York he hears our voice four hours before we speak, and if somebody in Japan sends us a cablegram tomorrow we get it today."

The Redding Searchlight tells it briefly, though not fully: "A movie actress got lost in the wilds of Los Angeles county, Charley Chaplin and other bloodhounds took up the trail, a big reward was offered, the actress was found in due time, and the movie business got a million dollars' worth of publicity for nothing."

The Richmond Record-Herald is unambiguous: "A San Francisco woman, nearly 60 years old is under arrest for violating another woman's husband. Her picture in the papers looks like the breaking up of a hard winter. But what kind of a mutt must that husband be?"

The Goldfield Tribune seems to have a pessimistic streak: "The man who is going to run automobiles on coal dust should not boast of his money-saving device. It will be very easy for the coal barons to put up the price of the dust."

The Long Beach Press thinks Carnegie just missed it: "The late Andrew Carnegie for a long time looked about for some formula for growing poor. If he were alive, the United States Shipping Board, as it has been conducted, could supply the formula."

The San Jose Mercury-Herald takes a fall out of lawfully constituted authority: "Remember the old wheeze about bootleggers wearing badges so that they wouldn't sell to each other? That's all wrong. They wear the badges so the police will know whom not to arrest."

The Medford Mail-Tribune gives disinterested advice: "Congress ought to pass a bill authorizing the making of beer, so the Nebraska and Minnesota farmers can sell their grain, and strengthen the present law prohibiting anybody from drinking it."

The Hanford Sentinel notes that geometry and crimps are not allied sciences: "A New York colored scientist who has been mystifying his followers with tales of squaring the circle ought to know that geometry has nothing to do with craps."

A twinkle from the Chico Enterprise: "The Rays of Governor Stephens' administration, Benjamin and Riley, are not exactly X-rays. Both are positive in character as well as explicit in statement."

The Medford Mail-Tribune notes the slow progress back to normalcy: "The return to normalcy is startling, if slow. One can now buy a ham sandwich for what a hog cost before the war."

On the other hand, observes the San Bernardino Sun, will there ever be peace in these prohibition times while there stands a line fence with grapes growing on it?

SPIRIT OF THE STATE PRESS

A heavy protective duty on oil in the face of the present high price of gasoline will hardly serve to increase the popularity of congress among the vast army of automobile owners and commercial users. Many interests need protection, but it is hard to make out a real case for the oil interests.—Sacramento Bee.

Chief Justice William H. Taft ought to be able to make both ends meet very satisfactorily, even if he is abnormally fat. The chief justice job is worth $15,000 annually and he gets a pension of $10,000 a year from the Carnegie pension fund.—Woodland Democrat.

The Rodeo-Vallejo Auto Ferry Company is so pleased with the business handled this summer that the directors are considering building another steamer of the Hanford type for use on the run across Carquinez straits between South Vallejo and Rodeo.—Vallejo News.

Lunch ropes, hot tar and feathers, and other ordeals of nocturnal habits which administer the law according to their own ideas and prejudices do not belong to an enlightened age. Yet there seems to be a sort of getting rid of this sort of disgrace to civilization in some parts of the United States.—Palo Alto Times.

We hold no brief for Japanese laborers, but many of the producers of perishable fruit claim that the men who are doing most of the agitating about driving out the Japanese refuse to work at any price. THE NEWS AT LAST REACHES BILLVILLE.

PIRATES OF 1921

The theory that pirates are again put forward in connection with the grounding of the Carroll Deering and the mysterious disappearance of the three other American steamships.

"An epidemic of piracy has followed in the wake of nearly all of the great wars. Even as recently as 1815 restless souls who had smelled the blood of battle and felt the intoxication of danger became loutish to settle down into peaceful ways of men and commerce, and chose the wide seas as an asylum because they refused to live under the law," says a bulletin of the National Geographic Society from its Washington, D. C., headquarters.

"Beside the broad oceans which offered infinite chance for escape there have always been the island-dotted areas which furnish excellent lurking places from which these exponents of absolute freedom might direct their efforts and to which they might take their quarry for examination and long division among them. The Greek Archipelago, the Barbary Coast, the East Indies, the China shores and the Spanish Main, within the shadow of our own doors, have been pirate bases for centuries and given to the world a wealth of stories of breathless interest.

"In ancient times these sea robbers off the coast of Greece, Italy and Asia Minor with their thousands of light, swift vessels, or 'sea mice,' as they were called, 'taxed' merchant shipping so heavily that they might and rightly termed their base of operations the 'Golden Gulf.' They flaunted their black flag in the face of mighty Rome, which remained impotent against them until Pompey with almost unlimited resources at his command curbed their operations.

"Ferdinand and Isabella unwittingly in their decision to drive the Moors from Spanish soil, let more upon the world, and particularly upon Spanish shipping, than at the height of its pride, a fearful horde of daring and unscrupulous avengers.

"In the early days of Moslem power one of the Kalifs wrote to his general and asked him what the sea was like. The general answered: 'The sea is a huge beast which slily folk ride like worms on.' Consequently the Kalif gave orders that no Moslem should voyage upon it, but they soon learned that they must conquer it if they were to hold their own among other peoples, and they subsequently furnished some of the most audacious and picturesque of the pirate figures.

"Two of the most daring and ingenious of these were the Barbarossa brothers. 'Red Beard' terrorized the Mediterranean world from Constantinople to the Pillars of Heracles. The excellent harbors and the island hiding places made it possible for him to defy the fleets of England, Italy, Spain and Holland, to levy tribute on all the vessels that passed over the highway, to capture the richly laden Papal galleys bound for Rome in Moslem defiance of Christendom and chain the Christians to their oars. In 1510, at that time notorious and immensely wealthy, he changed the base of his operations to the island of Jerba, off the coast of Tunis, where the Fates ceased to smile so kindly upon him. After many hard-fought battles and vicissitudes of fortune he fell before the forces of Charles V. of Spain near Tremizan on African soil. He had actually escaped, but upon learning that his faithful followers were close pressed he returned to die with them. The career of his brother, Khayr-ed-din, is scarcely less romantic.

"Piracy on the American coast among the French and Spanish navigators began before the days of the English colonists. Queen Elizabeth is said to have covertly countenanced as well as helped expeditions by buccaniers, and in the West Indies the trade restrictions placed by the various mother countries led to acceptance by many island governors of wares brought by navigators whom they knew to be freebooters and whose methods they could not afford to question. "Perhaps the most unscrupulous and wily of the perverted sea kings was Henry Morgan of the Caribbean. He was a magnate, an indomitable ruler, a crafty strategist, and a commander of genius as well as a pirate par excellence. In fact he flirted with one danger after the other, always to come out on top. He marched into Puerto Principe in the heart of Cuba and took it, despite every resistance. He outwitted with uncanny cunning the officers at Porto Bello in Panama, one of the strongest cities near the Caribbean shores, and the storehouse for the riches which had been brought by Spanish galleons and mule packs from the interior. He escaped with an inestimable amount of gold and jewels, ingeniously concealing a fireship against the Spanish to accomplish his escape when he was bottled up in Maracaibo Lake. Finally he took and sacked the city of Panama. Then leaving his companions in the lurch, he slipped away at night with all the booty to Jamaica, ingratiating himself with the governor, and was clever enough to get himself into the graces of the English king, who knighted him and made him lieutenant-governor of Jamaica for his 'long experience of that colony.' "In our boyhood, stories of Captain Kidd were frequent. The subject of the narratives was really a respectable sailor in the merchant service with a wife and family in New York, when he was commissioned by the English king in 1699 with power to seize and destroy off the American coast all pirate ships. Having been given ships and crews to accomplish the purpose, he gayly set sail across the Atlantic, around the Cape of Good Hope to Madagascar and the Red Sea to ravage East India waters and convert to his own uses his captures. Then he hid himself, so the story goes, to West Indian waters and buried his superfluous treasures below. Consequently the Kalif gave orders that no Moslem should voyage upon it, but they soon learned that they must conquer it if they were to hold their own among other peoples, and they subsequently furnished some of the most audacious and picturesque of the pirate figures.

Four Words.

Words fit to great occasions come not freely to any man's bidding. They flash out when the one man and the one time and the one place bring them forth, and then they are few and simple.

Pacific words and take their strength from what we are at loss to call less than inspiration. What Senator Lodge said at the memorial service where lay the bodies of American soldiers brought back from France is one more evidence of that. With four words he paid what makes more nearly the perfect tribute to our soldier dead than words uttered by any other man have done: "Here they lie victorious."

about YOUR HEALTH

How to Relieve Toothache Until a Dentist Can Aid You

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D., Commissioner of Health, New York City.

Did you ever sit up half the night with a mouthful of cold water? As fast as the water became warm, did you replace it with cold?

When you were a little boy did you go out and lie down on the sidewalk in the sun, placing your cheek against the hot cement, in order to stop the throbbing ache in your back tooth?

Toothache is the most unnecessary of our many aches. Toothache is due to neglect. When an adult has toothache it serves him right. But a child has not sinned, he has been sinned against. He suffers the penalty of his parents' neglect.

Nobody likes to go to a dentist. He has sharp-pointed instruments and a drill that makes a frightful buzzing. The funny thing about it, though, is that a dentist really hurts you badly. But you are always afraid he will hurt. When he uses the drill, it doesn't pain, but you are afraid the miserable thing will slip and buzz his way right through the nerve of the tooth. It doesn't do that, but you never get over fearing that it will.

The right remedy for toothache is the dentist. Of course, the child will not have toothache if he is taught to use his toothbrush daily and to care for his teeth properly. When the ache appears, however, he must have the immediate care of the dentist. Early attention will stop the pain and save the tooth. Many times, too, the treatment is very simple, briefly and effectively applied.

What can be done to give temporary relief in toothache?

I have spoken already of cold water. The pain of toothache is sometimes due to the expansion of the gases of fermentation within the tooth. In such a case the cold water reduces the temperature sufficiently to prevent gas expansion with its resulting pressure upon the sensitive portions of the tooth.

In other cases heat will relieve the pain. A hot water bottle may be applied to the cheek or cloths wrung out of hot water may give comfort. Hot salt bags or hot bran bags are used at times.

Counter-irritation may help. Capsicum vaseline, rubbed on the cheek or jaw, produces such reaction as to stop the pain. A similar preparation containing menthol may be more helpful. A small mustard plaster will do.

At times the pain is due to over-acidity of the secretions of the mouth. The acid fluid inflames the sore gum or irritates the sensitive tissues of the decayed tooth. In such a case bicarbonate of soda or common baking soda, either dry or in strong solution held in the mouth, will give great comfort.

Iodine properly applied is most valuable. Let me say now, however, that iodine is poison, and may be harmful if wrongly used. If employed at all, it should be applied with a match or toothpick rolled in a thin layer of cotton. Wet the end with a drop or two of iodine and gently rub it on the gum about the aching tooth. As stated, it must be sparingly used or it will burn the tissues.

These suggestions will take you through the night. The next morning consult a first-class dentist, and have him repair the results of your neglect.

.C. in Strong Favor With California Presbyterians

MINISTERS AND MISSIONARIES GIVEN CHURCH

ord Exceeded By Only One College in United States.

University of California pre-eminently opportunities for men and Christian statesmen because of its location on its roads to the Orient, because it is the largest university in the country and because it has definite connections with thirty-one different nations enrolled in it, according to detailed report given before the annual synod of Presbyterian churches today. Rev. L. H. Hillis, pastor at the university, the report following devotionals conducted by Dr. W. H. Hillis stated that during the last year the university has had the Presbyterian Church twenty-nine ministers and two missionaries and that the Presbyterian college, a Presbyterian institution, is the only one surpassing the University of California in the number of former students attending the San Francisco Theological Seminary. Fifty per cent of the present seminary students formerly attended the University of California, he said.

SHINE IN ATHLETICS
study of the Blue and Gold student's year book shows that Presbyterians have furnished more than their share of the wear of the big C. Rev. Hillis said that out of twenty-five in football, five out of twenty-three in basketball, two out of nine in baseball, basketball, make a large showing. In other sports, while the proportion of Presbyterians to the total population is about one to sixty, the proportion of Presbyterians to the total student body is about seven or eight.

Results of the various forms of service which the church has been carrying on at the university are very satisfactory, according to Hillis. During the past year, the number of Presbyterian volunteers has averaged forty and the expenditures for university work have averaged $10,000. During the same period, the attendance of Presbyterian students of the San Francisco Theological Seminary has increased tenfold, he stated.

The following query of interest to ex-service men came to The TRIBUNE'S Information Bureau today from an Oakland subscriber: "Would you kindly tell me whether the government has ever made any provisions for loaning money to ex-service men for buying homes?"

There is a California state law (Senate Bill No. 894) which provides for a loan to ex-service men of a sum of money not to exceed $5000 to be applied upon the purchase price of a home. An initial payment of five per cent down must be paid under this feature of the bill.

Amount of loan must be repaid to the state within a period of 40 years. This rate of interest is 3 per cent. After the passage of the bill by the senate, $2,000,000 was appropriated to look after loans of this character.

PARENTS' OPINION LIGHTLY HELD IS ROSBOROUGH VIEW

Postmaster At Luncheon of Electric Club Talks On Problem of Youth.

Boys today no longer care for the opinions of their parents, teachers or the family minister, but harken to those of their fellow playmates, according to Postmaster Joseph J. Rosborough, who spoke on "The Man of Tomorrow," at luncheon today of the Electric Club at the Hotel Oakland.

"It is characteristic of the boy not to care much about his father's opinion, or his mother's opinion, particularly during the adolescent period," said Rosborough. "He cares very little about the opinion of his school teacher and of his minister. It is peculiar to the boy, but he does care very deeply about the opinion of his fellow boys of his own age, and reserves his confidences usually for them and is very reticent about the home. How important it is therefore to bring boys together in the right kind of organizations with proper leadership that they might develop a sort of public opinion among themselves, which guides the right course of their lives, which is the surest way to guide boys safely and fully in these modern days, and the aggregate of their opinions under such circumstances has been found to be of a remarkable high type."

AGE FOR GUIDANCE.

"Youth is the age of potential crime and if the boy can be guided properly past the dangerous point, his life directed along useful lines, the criminal instincts are outgrown and he becomes a good citizen. You may be surprised to know that out of about 2000 inmates of San Quentin prison, 1100 are under 30 years of age, 778 are under 26 years and over 300 under 21 years of age; some of them second and third offenders. In New York City 18 per cent of those apprehended as criminals are boys under 21 years of age; while in the city of Oakland this past year there have been 1000 boys brought into our detention home and about 500 actually convicted in our detention court for some crime or other."

The United States Juvenile Employment Service has published some very significant statistics that show that out of 100 average American boys, ten leave school before they are 16 years of age, and next year, twenty-five the following year and twelve the next, leaving only thirteen boys at the age of seventeen out of the original 100 in school.

BOY GREATEST PROBLEM.

"It seems to me that the greatest problem of civilization today is the problem of the boy, who, after all is said and done, will be the citizen of tomorrow, the builder of thought, morality and standards of this and other nations, and he must be trained along proper lines during his formative period when his character is being molded and during the impressionable period of his life, when right and wrong are so indelibly impressed upon his tender mind. The morality and standards of today are so low, and, unless some concerted action is taken by

Fifteen Per Cent Rent Raise In Fall, Prediction

(By United Press)
CHICAGO, July 25.—Landlords in Chicago and throughout the Middle West generally, plan to ask tenants for another 15 per cent raise this fall, according to advices to the United Press tonight.

The landlords are seizing upon the shortage of dwellings to get them "by" with the proposed increase, the report stated. In many localities labor trouble and the high cost of building materials enter into the situation. The Chicago Tenants' Protective League tonight started to fight any raise, E. A. Potter, manager of the league, said: "We are holding daily meetings and expect to raise enough funds and get enough members to drive profiteering rent hogs out of existence."

TERMINAL SITE FOR BRIDGE NOT YET AGREED ON

Two meetings scheduled for this afternoon in the office of the city engineer in San Francisco, to hear the report by Maxson Campbell, chairman of the bridge-the-bay committee of Oakland, regarding the terminal site of the bridge, the project, has been postponed. The committee which is headed by Campbell had not yet completed its report. No date for another meeting has been set.

"We have not completed the report," Campbell said this morning. "As soon as the report is completed, I told the city engineer of San Francisco, I will notify him and the meeting will be called then."

The meeting had been called to hear the Eastbay sentiment on the San Francisco bay project, as it is recommended by V. Vipond Davies and Ralph Modjeski, Oakland bridge experts. The location of the terminal being the chief bone of contention, the Eastbay communities were recently invited to settle this issue among themselves and prepare a report that could be incorporated in the report of the subcommittee to the general committee.

SCHOOL BOARD IN DARK CONCERNING AVAILABLE FUNDS

Supervisors Will Be Asked For Statement Month Before Session.

Faced by the possibility of opening the school term this year without knowing how much money will be available for that purpose, the Board of Education tonight will consider the advisability of asking the Board of Supervisors and the City Council for some official hint as to how much will be appropriated for schools.

The Board of Education members admit they are in a quandary. Tax moneys may not be available before September, but the schools must open before September. Prior to opening various arrangements and appointments must be made, and it is pointed out that the preliminaries to opening school occupy at least one month at best.

"The quicker we know where we stand, the better we can cut our cloth to fit the pattern," says John W. Edmonds, auditor of the school department. "If we know just how much money we will receive, we can then proceed to make our arrangements for the school term. If we are in doubt, we will be delayed."

Members of the Board of Education admit that they expect their budget estimates to be cut. There are some plans which cannot be pared, including the extra $200,000 needed for new teachers to take care of the 4000-odd new pupils in the school department. Wherever the cut is made, agree the school directors, it will ultimately fall upon "school activities," which include the various community, entertainment, public and possibly Americanization, works of the Oakland educational department.

Clubs To Discuss Free Port Question

Delegates from all Oakland clubs will meet at a luncheon with the One Hundred Percent Club at the Hotel Oakland next Friday at 12:15 for open discussion on the Nolan bill now pending before Congress on the free port question. Among the speakers who will address the meeting are former Governor George C. Pardee, and Nathaniel Davis, publisher of the Pacific Magazine of San Francisco.

The meeting will be conducted under the auspices of the One Hundred Percent Club, who have sent invitations to all organizations in Oakland.

City Plaza Is To Be Given Steady Bloom

In compliance with the Mayor's oft-repeated desire to make the City Hall plaza bloom all year round, as far as possible, the new park board has begun the planting of flowering shrubs which will gradually take the place of the clump of greenery in the center of the plaza.

The plaza has not had a floral design for years. The general contour of the greenery has never been described, as the gardeners merely dug into the ground whenever they wanted to plant anything. The general design, as seen from above, now resembles two irregular ovals oiled together, or an egg with the sides crushed in.

"That plaza," says the Mayor, "is one of Oakland's most valuable assets, and it is one of the first things that strike the eye of the visitor. It should be a riot of color. Hitherto it has only been a lawn with a little drab greenery in it. We will stop that. This is a California city. Flowers should be seen all over the plaza."

Botanists say that rose bushes do not thrive on this soil, and that nearly every other species of plant will be tried.

Syndicalism Trials Set For Aug. 15

John Taggsdale, C. A. Toby, Max Bedacht, J. E. Snyder and J. H. Dolson, accused of criminal syndicalism in connection with activities of the communist party in Oakland, were brought before Superior Judge Lincoln S. Church for trial this morning. On request of counsel for the defense the case was continued until August 15.

In a previous trial of Dolson the jury was unable to agree. When the case is brought to trial next month the men will probably be made joint defendants, under the joint trial law passed by the last legislature. Assistant District Attorney Warren indicated today.

Snyder was formerly editor of a radical publication in Oakland.

GIRL WILL WALK EAST IN SEARCH OF SWEETHEART

Missing Man Believed Near Hamilton, Ontario; Was Wounded in War

Believing that somewhere in Ontario, Canada, lives the man to whom she was engaged to be married and who the war department has officially recorded as "killed in action," Miss Mabel Taylor, 19 years old, left Oakland today afoot, accompanied by a girl friend, to search for her missing sweetheart.

With Florence Taylor, 23 years old, Miss Taylor arrived in Oakland Saturday. Her sweetheart's name was also Taylor—Loren Taylor—but not a relative. Neither are the girls relatives. The men they are hunting for formerly resided in Hamilton, Ontario.

MET IN LOS ANGELES.
Taylor became acquainted with Miss Taylor in Los Angeles before the war. Following a brief courtship, the couple were engaged. Taylor went to France, from where came a flood of letters from Miss Taylor, each filled with love platitudes and plans for "after the war." The last letter was dated in France three days before the armistice, in the midst of the fighting. Then came the armistice. Following that came the news from the War Department that Taylor had died of wounds.

Some time later Miss Taylor met a friend of her sweetheart's. Like so many other cases that have caused the War Department much worry and relatives no end of searching, Taylor's friend declared that he had seen the supposed dead man in a hospital after the armistice.

"Something seemed to tell me at the time that he was not dead," declared Miss Taylor today just before she left Oakland. "I am convinced that during Loren's convalescence he lost track of me and has returned home to Canada. Not knowing his address there and unable to get in touch with anyone who knows him, I am going to find out for myself if he really is dead."

"He may be shell shocked and the old days in California obliterated from his memory. I am going to find out though. We are going to take it easy and make the journey in stages, working perhaps now and then to help pay the expenses of the trip. We shall reach Hamilton by September."

Although a Canadian by birth, Taylor served with the 51st division, having enlisted in Los Angeles, where he was employed when the United States declared war.
